

WINMARK 2019 RUSTY'S RUN CHARDONNAY

Winmark Wines has added a new chardonnay style to its growing portfolio of quality wines coming from the rich soils of the Broke Fordwich region. With a long viticultural history dating back to 1972, the former Pooles Rock property in the Hunter Valley is enjoying a revival like no other. Under the direction of its owners Karin Adcock and John Winstanley along with a skilled team of winemaking and viticultural experts, the vineyard is yet again producing premium quality wine. Winemaker and consultant John Belsham continues to oversee the wine making lending his 35 years of chardonnay expertise to Winmark Wines ensuring the road from the vines to the glass is optimised. The first release from the 2019 vintage is the stylish Rusty's Run Chardonnay. This wine was named after Rusty the owners beautiful Kelpie who loves playing in the vines!

TASTING NOTES

The 2019 Winmark Rusty's Run chardonnay is a true example of classic Hunter Valley fruit. The season was ideal for chardonnay being typically warm with low levels of rain aiding a traditional ripening period. The fruit was harvested at night and after going through initial oak fermentation it was left in stainless steel tanks for the duration until its release in October. The wine shows notes of peach and citrus with a crisp finish brought on by less oak and more emphasis on elegance and balance. It is drinking beautifully now and can be stored for 3-5 years if needed.
